Good morning Joanne,

Thank you for your email.

The cost per premises falls within the boundary of the voucher scheme. Openreach are electing to run the scheme as a demand-led opportunity, meaning there is no requirement for a legal entity to be formed within the community, and they will draw up the contract once enough people within the community pledge. This is done by their demand-led pledge website.

What you need to do now is provide your response to your Martin Crutchley (_____) and indicate that you'd like to move forward. Martin will then be able to establish the next stage of the process.

In short; this looks like great value for money for the residents concerned, and all they'll need to do now is pledge their commitment when the pledge website goes live.

Kind regards,
